ROOSEVELT SAYS HE WILL ASK FOR SEPARATE STATEHOOD

PHOENIX, Nov. 17.—"I shall of course urge separate statehood for Arizona in my message."

In the above words President Roosevelt again pledges his support to Arizona and his opposition to joint statehood.

On Nov. 5, after it was a certainty that Ralph Cameron was elected delegate to congress, Chief Justice Edward Kent wrote a letter to the president, conveying to him the glad tidings.

Saturday Judge Kent received the president's reply, embodying the above words. Immediately the judge wired for permission to publish the correspondence, and in the afternoon received a message saying that President Roosevelt had no objection.

Judge Kent's letter was as follows: Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 5, 1908.

The President,

Washington, W. C.

Dear Mr. President:

In my telegram to you of yesterday I stated that it seemed as if the election of the Republican delegate from Arizona was assured. The fuller returns now indicate that Cameron has been elected over Mark Smith by nearly one thousand plurality, thus reversing by a substantial vote the large plurality of Mr. Smith of two years ago. This is naturally a matter of great rejoicing to the Republicans in the territory. It seems to me it ought to be of great aid to us in our application for early statehood for Arizona. I hope it will seem wise to you to make a recommendation in your message for separate statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, in order that the enabling act may, if possible, be passed by both branches of congress at the coming short session. In my opinion the sooner we shall have our constitutional convention the better the constitution that we can adopt, and with the example of Oklahoma to show us some things that should be avoided, I feel confident that we can present to the people for adoption a constitution which will be satisfactory to them and to the president.

There should be some concerted plan for the presentation to congress of a proper enabling act, and in the method of its presentation, both in the senate and the house. It would seem to me that both branches of congress ought to be willing to accept such an act as that presented in the former joint statehood bill (making it applicable, of course, to single statehood conditions). That was a very generous act in its provisions for the territories, and would be very acceptable to our people here.

I think it is the intention of Governor Kibbey to go to Washington early in December, and I think it would be wise for him to be there at the opening of congress that he might have a conference with you and the leaders of the party in congress with respect to the provisions of the enabling act and its introduction.

The great victory throughout the country was not only a recognition of Judge Taft's splendid qualifications for the office, but also a glorious endorsement of all that you have stood for and achieved, and as such it has been a matter of great rejoicing to all of us who are so cordially in accord with you.

Yours very sincerely,

EDWARD KENT.

Following is the president's reply:

The White House,

Washington, Nov. 8, 1908.

My dear Mr. Chief Justice:

I have your letter of the 5th. That is really good business. I am delighted that Cameron is elected. I shall of course urge separate statehood for Arizona and New Mexico in my message. If Governor Kibbey will come on here I will help him in every way in the preparation and urging of such a measure.

Faithfully yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Hon. Edward Kent,

Chief Justice, Supreme Court,

Phoenix, Arizona.

BULLISH TENDENCY TO WORK MARKET HENCEFORTH

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The developments of the past week indicate with a clearness which cannot be denied, that the good craft "Business Revival" has been launched and is at present rapidly floating into deep water. The stock markets are leading the advance. The course of securities on the exchanges since election day shows that, in the minds of the great market operators, there is no doubt about the business future of the country. The speculative activity of the past few days is the forerunner of a period of plenty. Securities are enjoying a bull market, which cannot culminate until the high water mark of prosperity has been reached.

Far and away the best opportunities appear to be in the curb market and among the new meritorious developing enterprises. The business revival is making for advances in the price of all the metals except silver, and the price of silver is certain to be effected favorably before long. Copper is now only fractionally below 15c per pound, and in the opinion of the authorities the market is headed with certainty for an 18 cent price. It may not reach this price for some months, but that copper will settle around 18 cents in the comparatively near future, few well informed men doubt. In the meantime, good copper stocks are a purchase. The buying of such stocks as Miami, Cumberland Ely, Superior & Pittsburg, which is recently opened another enormous body of high grade ore, Imperial Copper of Arizona, Utah Copper, Nevada Cons., which on ore reserves seems to be conservatively worth $30 a share, Mason Valley and Ohio Copper, is recommended.

The Goldfield market is stronger, but has not shown the same amount of strength since the election, as have the Cobalts and the Coppers. Thos. Shotwell, one of the best authorities in New York on market matters, says that the Goldfields, particularly Consolidated, are being "held down by main force" until the completion of the Goldfield Cons. mill. Until that mill gets into operation a market movement would not be timely. If his judgment is correct, and it is believed that it is entirely sound, such good Goldfield stocks as Consolidated Florence, Combination Fraction, Daisy and Kewanas, should be picked up now.

The passing of the smelters and mines of the Consolidated Arizona Smelting Company into the hands of Hooley, Learned & Co., seems to indicate that this enterprise is to be controlled by Burrage and Lawson. If so, look out for fireworks. The stock is a great gamble.

When your "fad" grows old sell it through a Journal-Miner want ad.
